Editorial

A Note from the Publisher:

Campus Recruit Magazine is aimed at preparing students for careers after college. It features information and advice on career, education, health and fitness, entertainment, technology, 'Our World' and a section called 'Smarts' on tips for college students. The magazine touches on issues that matter to students, on every aspect of college life. Founded by a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) engineering and business schools, the magazine provides unique insight on the college experiences of students from various backgrounds in various disciplines, effectively capturing their interests, and meeting their unique needs. With a readership of over 50,000 students and growing, the magazine is a publication that advertisers trust as their marketing partner.

Editorial Mission

Campus Recruit Magazine is written for college students and high school graduating seniors across the United States. Its mission is to educate, inform and entertain students across the nation. It will prepare students in areas that will help them develop the skills they need to attain a fulfilling career.

Editorial Highlights:

Each issue of the magazine will feature successful career professionals - CEOs, senior executives, senior government officials, activists/change agents, artists and more from across the country. It will tell their stories of how they got into the positions they are in today, and what key decisions made, both academically and professionally helped them get there. In addition to sections on career, education, entertainment and more, readers also get great advice to help them stay physically and financially fit with articles on such topics as "Financial Planning", "How to Lose the Dreaded Freshman 15 Pounds", or "How to Eat Healthy on a Budget."

The Market

According to the U.S. Department of Education, National Center for Education Statistics, there are over 17 million college students in the United States, and this number is growing. This group wields over $20 billion in discretionary spending power.

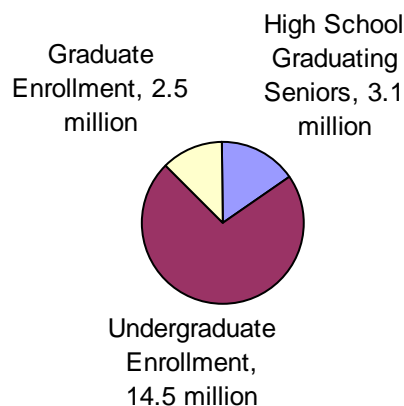

Career-wise, 55% of students we surveyed did or plan on doing an internship while in college. 64% of students we surveyed plan to look for a full time job after college. Over 80% of students we surveyed said finding the right career was important to them.

Campus Recruit Magazine is aimed at reaching college students and graduating high school seniors and providing them with valuable information and advice that will help them develop the skills they need to attain a fulfilling career. In addition to a career information section, the magazine will also feature sections on education, health and fitness, entertainment, technology, 'Our World' and a section called 'Smarts' on tips for college students.

Campus Recruit magazine is targeted towards college students and graduating high school seniors across the United States. We work with guidance counselors and career service centers to fill the career resource gaps that exist in high schools and college campuses across the country. The magazine will feature articles on choosing the right career for you, how to answer the difficult interview questions and many more. It will also feature CEOs, senior executives, government officials and other successful professionals around the country, giving a view of how they got to where they are today and what academic and professional choices they made along the way.

Our magazine serves a wide group of people, however, since Campus Recruit magazine is mainly targeted towards college students (both undergraduate and graduate) and graduating high school students, our readers are typically between the ages of 17 to 35 years old.
